Good On You Appoints Odonata as Independent Monitoring Body for its Sustainability Label

Partnership strengthens reliable sustainability communication under the new EU EmpCo Directive, building on the existing TourCert certification

Rheinbach / Stuttgart, 22 October 2026 – Odonata Certification Services GmbH is taking on, with immediate effect, the independent monitoring of the proprietary sustainability criteria of specialist tour operator NEUE WEGE Reisen. The partnership builds on the operator's long-standing TourCert certification and aligns its communication specifically with the transparency requirements of the European Empowering Consumers for the Green Transition Directive (EmpCo).

Monitoring Credibility Through Independent Monitoring

Since its founding, NEUE WEGE has taken a consistently sustainable approach to yoga and wellness travel. Guided by the principle of "Conscious Travel," the company has established its own criteria that go beyond conventional standard certifications. Going forward, Odonata will act as an independent body, reviewing how these in-house standards are applied, documented and communicated. TourCert's established quality and sustainability management remains explicitly the foundation of the tour operator's work.

"Our collaboration with NEUE WEGE is a prime example of how we see our role at Odonata: it is not about replacing proven certification systems, but about adding meaningful layers of assurance. NEUE WEGE sees sustainability as a continuous process of development. With our independent monitoring, we help ensure that these additional efforts can be communicated to travelers in a way that is both verifiable and legally sound."

Future-Proof Sustainability Communication Under EU Standards

The partnership is emblematic of a shift across the entire travel market. The new EU EmpCo Directive requires that sustainability-related claims made to consumers be based on clear rules, objective evidence and an external verification body.

"As a pioneer in sustainable yoga and Ayurveda travel, we are committed to offering our guests the greatest possible transparency. Our long-standing TourCert certification gives us a strong foundation. Through our partnership with Odonata, we are now taking the next step: having our specific sustainability criteria independently verified. This builds genuine trust and ensures that our communication fully complies with upcoming European regulations."

— Johannes Reißland, Managing Director, NEUE WEGE
